Dear Diary,

Today, I saw a little boy on my way home. He was sitting on a bench in the park, and there were no other people around him. Therefore, I stopped and walked to him. He was singing and playing with a toy car in his hand when I got near. “He might be lost,” I thought at first. However, how could a four- or five-year-old little boy act so bravely when he couldn’t find his mom or dad? Before I opened my mouth to ask his name, the boy began to speak like he was talking to himself. “Hello, my name is Tony. Don’t worry about me. I’m not lost. I’m just waiting for Robbie to come back here. Mommy wants me to walk him in the park, but I don’t like to run around with him. I sit here with my toy car and wait for him until he comes and finds me. By the way, four people asked me the same question in the past hour, and you might be the fifth!” The whole thing was really funny, and the little boy was really smart! :) Good night!

Kiki and Jean are going to the International Travel Fair (ITF) in Taipei. The tickets cost them NT$300. Now they are at the entrance. A man is helping them find their way.

Man: Hello, welcome here! How may I help you?

Jean: Oh, hi! We would like to find some fun trips to Japan.

But, wow, this place is so big!

Man: Don't worry! Here's a map for you. Let's see.... There are some stands for Japan in Area 3. Just walk straight north to the end of Street A. It's across from the stand with a small letter i. That's our information counter. You can ask for help there, too.

Kiki: And where can I find cheap trips to the USA?

Man: Area 5. We are at the entrance here, and you can find Street F on the left. Walk along Street F to Road B, but don't cross it. You'll see Area 5 on your left.

Jean: Great! Thanks for your help.

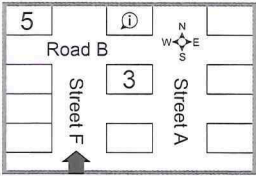

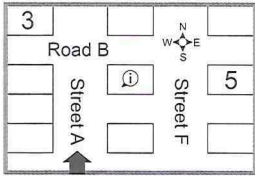

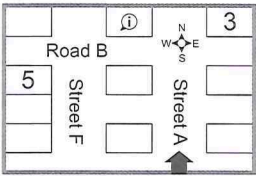

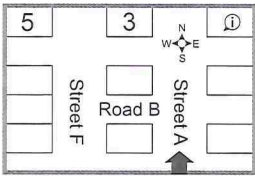

Man: No problem! Enjoy your day here!
