Some had a headache and rested in my office for the day. We even sent some to the hospital because their stomachs hurt. Let me tell all of you again. Make sure you wash your hands before eating. Put on more clothes or bring a coat with you because winter is coming. Keep your body warm, and you don't get sick easily. Also, eat healthy food every day. Have an apple or an orange a day. Hey, I am Martin. I just came back from Taiwan. I have a lot of things to share with you.

I went to Taiwan in June this year to visit my friend, Eric. He took me to Taipei, Taitung, Lukang, and Kaohsiung. Taiwan is really beautiful. Also, I love the food there.

One thing happened when I was there. One day, Eric and I were driving to Kaohsiung when a police officer waved and stopped us. He wanted to see Eric's driver's license because Eric looked so young. He thought Eric was sixteen years old; however, Eric was already nineteen. After he saw the license, he let us go. At that time, I knew one thing: You can't drive before you're eighteen years old in Taiwan. In the USA, I can drive, and I am only sixteen years old. This is so different.

November 11

Dear Ashley,

I’m your big fan from Taiwan. This is my first English letter to a big star like you. When I was thirteen, I listened to your popular song “Smile to Me” on YouTube. Then I started to love your music and follow you on Instagram. I dream about being a famous singer in the future. I think about that all the time. But in fact, I felt very confused at first because I’m not tall or thin. I don’t have a good face for the camera, either. What’s more, in my parents’ eyes, as a senior high school student, I have to study long hours every day. It’s not right to waste too much time on music. However, on the other hand, I joined the school guitar club two years ago and met my music teacher there. Ms. Du always cheers me up, and she wants me to make good use of my special gifts for music. I then keep practicing singing and dancing in my free time. I even learn to write songs about different things. My motto is: Actions speak louder than words. Without fighting, a dream is just a dream.

Thanks for reading my letter. It’s cold in the USA these days. Please take care!

Stuart

Dear Dr. Know-It-All,

Oct. 20

I have a good friend, Janice. We studied in the same elementary school before. This early July, I moved to Rose Town, so we go to different junior high schools now. We don't have much time getting together after school like before. We can only spend weekends studying in Smart Library across from Peace Church.

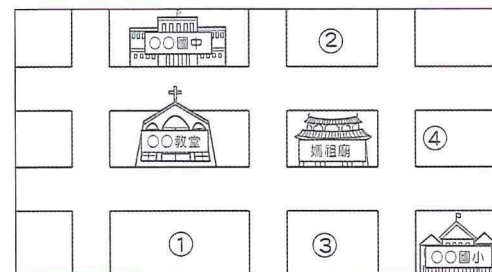

Last month was my fourteenth birthday. We took a one-day trip to King Zoo, and we went there by bus. I also invited my new classmate, Sofia, to join us. During the trip, we all had a great time. However, Janice sent me a long message that night. In it, she wrote, "I'm not happy because you invited Sofia without asking me first. You don't care about my feelings...." After reading it, I called her and told her my idea, "More people, more fun!" But with a jealous mind, she didn't accept it. In fact, this problem happened lots of times before, and we fought about it again and again. Dr. Know-It-All, what can I do now? I don't want to lose this good friend, but I feel really tired of the same problem.

Many thanks,

Kelly from Rose Town
