A.

Min-seo is in her last year of high school in Korea. Some people believe it is the most difficult time in a student's life. To Min-seo, it is true. There is nothing but studying in her life. All the hard work is for one thing—the college entrance exam. For most students, the exam will decide their future. Only doing well on the exam can help them get into a good college, and going to a good college is the key to getting a good job. "It's not right that one exam can decide a person's future. We students can take it more than once, but I think no one would want to go through that again. Actually, there is another way to get into college, but that means getting good grades and doing lots of activities in all three years. To me, life is already hard enough. I can only study as much as I can," said Min-seo.

 college entrance exam 大學入學考  key 關鍵

- () 1. Why is the college entrance exam so important to students in Korea?
(A) It may be the key to a successful life.
(B) It is the only way to get into a college.
(C) Everyone gets only one chance to take it.
(D) If they fail the exam, they have to start high school all over again.
- () 2. The reading does NOT provide an answer to one of the questions below. Which one is it?
(A) What is a high school student's life like in Korea?
(B) What does the college entrance exam mean to Korean students?
(C) What activities can Korean students do to help them get into college?
(D) Why is the last year of high school so difficult for most Korean students?

B.

"Why is it so hard to get into a habit?" Have you ever asked yourself this question after failing to build a new habit? Building a habit is not as hard as you think, but it does take time. "How long does it take then?" you may ask. A scientist had the same question.

To find the answer, the scientist did a study on 96 people. In the study, each person chose a simple habit like drinking a glass of water every morning or running for 15 minutes every day. During the next 12 weeks, these people had to try to make it a habit and report to the scientist. It took some of them only 18 days to build a new habit, and others needed more than 12 weeks. At the end of the study, the scientist found that it usually takes 66 days for people to get into a new habit.

So, if you try to build a habit like starting a new diet or exercising more, try to make it last for at least two months. After two months, you might actually get into that habit.

- () 1. Which may be the best title (標題) for the reading?
(A) Why Is It So Hard to Stay in Shape?
(B) How Long Does It Take to Build a Habit?
(C) What Habits Do You Need to Live a Healthy Life?
(D) Why Is Building a Habit So Hard for Some People?
- () 2. According to (根據) the scientist, how long do most people need to get into a new habit?
(A) Eighteen days. (B) Around 12 weeks.
(C) More than 84 days. (D) Around two months.
- () 3. Four people read about the study and wrote down their experiences.

Bob	9:25 p.m.	I had to tell my son to brush his teeth every night for two months. Now he has finally started to do it on his own. I don't need to say anything.
Tina	4:17 p.m.	That explains everything. It took me two and a half months to really get into the habit of jogging every evening.
Gene	12:56 p.m.	Two months? No way! I've tried for a year to feed my dog every morning, but I still forget to do it. Luckily, my wife never forgets.
Louise	11:03 a.m.	I think it's true. It took me about seventy days to build a reading habit before bed.

Whose experience is different from the finding (發現) of the study?

- (A) Bob's. (B) Tina's. (C) Gene's. (D) Louise's.

When you pet a cat and make them feel really good, you might hear them purring. So you think when they purr, it means they're happy. It is true that cats do purr when they are content. However, things are not that simple. Purring can mean many different things.

Studies show that purring is a way for cats to show their feelings or share information. Cats learn to purr from mother cats when they're only a few days old. Purring can help mother cats understand young cats' wants and needs. For example, young cats purr and cry at the same time to let mother cats know they're hungry. Some cats keep the habit and do the same thing even after they grow up.

There are also studies showing that cats purr when they are nervous. When a cat runs away from a dog and starts purring, the purring, of course, doesn't mean the cat is happy; it means the cat is scared. Cats also purr when they hurt themselves. Their own purring can make their body feel better and more comfortable.

Sumo wrestlers eat up to 7,000 calories a day, and their body weight can easily reach 300 to 400 pounds. Many people think they are not healthy because of their weight. However, they are heavy but healthy. Sumo wrestlers have to do a lot of exercise and training every day. The training starts at 5 a.m. and often lasts up to five hours. They also keep a special diet. Most fat people get heavier because they eat too much unhealthy food. As for sumo wrestlers, they eat healthy food and lots of vegetables, and they only have two meals a day. Studies also show that they store fat differently from fat people. Usually, it is easy to find fat around a fat person's heart, and that often creates health problems. But for sumo wrestlers, their fat is mostly under the skin, and that seldom causes health problems. However, when sumo wrestlers end their career, they need to eat a lot fewer calories. Without that much exercise and training, 7,000 calories a day is too much for them to burn and can lead to serious health problems.

A new aquarium opened in May near Orange City. Since it opened, people have kept talking about it. However, it is not because the aquarium is so good that everyone wants to check it out. Many people think that the aquarium is treating the sea animals badly. First, the tanks in the aquarium are not big enough for the animals to live in comfortably. Most of them keep swimming in circles and look unhappy. Second, the aquarium does not stop people from hitting the tank glass. Some people do this, and it makes the animals nervous. Third, the aquarium trains some of the animals to do tricks, like catching a ball or "kissing" people. It is wrong to train them to do things just to keep people interested. Also, the aquarium does not provide enough information about the sea animals. People can learn almost nothing at the aquarium; it is just a place for people to take photos of the animals and post them online.

In Japan, it is not hard to find vending machines. They come in different sizes and colors. They don't just sell drinks; they sell everything from fresh fruit to hot meals. You can even buy flowers and clothes like T-shirts and ties from them. They can be found at every train station and in many buildings. It is said that there are more than five million vending machines in Japan.

So, why are there so many vending machines in Japan? Opening and running a shop in Japan costs a lot of money. On the other hand, vending machines are much easier and cheaper to run. Anyone with 82,000 NT dollars can own a vending machine. Also, people are not worried about putting vending machines in public areas because almost no one would break them. What's more, most shops in the countryside are not open 24 hours a day. They usually open around 10 a.m. and close at 6 or 7 p.m. When people are hungry or thirsty in the middle of the night, they can turn to vending machines.

Getting things from vending machines is faster and more convenient than from a real store. For many people in Japan, vending machines make life easier.

Josie: Are you okay? You look unhappy.

Pete: It's the same student again. The school collects all the phones before class, right? He hands in a fake phone to appear to follow the rule but keeps the real one and uses it in class. I've told him not to do it many times, but he never listens.

Josie: Oh, I see. Next time, you should take the real phone away. I do this when my students trick me that way.

Pete: I don't want to touch students' things. What should I do?

Josie: Maybe you should have a word with his parents and tell them what's happening at school.

Pete: That's a good idea. I'll call them. Thank you, Josie. I wouldn't know what to do without you.

Josie: Take it easy. It's your first month, and you're doing a good job. Don't let a small problem make you unhappy.

When you walk in the city, have you ever looked down at the street under your feet? Have you noticed any beautiful paintings? In the city, it is not hard to see artists using chalk to make paintings on the street. This type of street art is called street painting or sidewalk art. By using different colors of chalk, sidewalk artists turn boring streets into works of art.

One of the most beautiful things about street painting is that it will not be there forever. If you miss a painting, you are probably never going to see it again. The art is made to be seen for only a short time. Because streets and sidewalks are public spaces, the paintings need to be easy to remove. That is why many sidewalk artists choose to use chalk. It can be washed away easily by water or rain.

Street painting is very popular today, so you might think it can only be seen in the modern world. In fact, street painting has been around for a very long time. It could be from the 1700s. In the 1890s in London, there were more than 500 sidewalk artists creating street paintings.

Jerry: Hi, Mina.

Mina: Hey, Jerry. Wow! You've changed a lot over just one summer.

Jerry: I've grown a lot wider. I went to Ms. Simon's summer camp.

Mina: That's why. I went to the camp last year, and I came back ten pounds heavier. How did you like the camp?

Jerry: Although I made mistakes every day and almost blew up the kitchen once, I had a lot of fun. And of course, I ate a lot, too.

Mina: How could you not eat a lot? You had to taste what you made. Which dessert was the most fun for you to make?

Jerry: The dirt in the flowerpot. It was easy to make and tasted so good. It looked like dirt in a pot, but it was actually chocolate cookies and ice cream.

Mina: After the camp, I think you could open a bakery of your own.

Jerry: I'm not sure about that. I might eat everything before it's sold.

A long, long time ago, there was a beautiful city in Cambodia. Its name was Angkor. The city was built by a king on a large piece of land in the forest. The king and his people lived there for a long time. In the past, Angkor was one of the biggest cities in the world, and it was larger than some modern cities like Paris and Berlin. However, Angkor was attacked and burned down in 1432. Not long after that, the city was forgotten by the world.

In 1860, the city was visited by a man from France. He was blown away by the beautiful buildings in the city. The buildings were made of stone, and there were fine sculptures on the walls. The man spent a long time in Cambodia drawing pictures of the buildings and writing about the city. Because of him, people around the world began to learn about Angkor.

Today, Angkor is one of the most famous places in Cambodia. Every year, millions of people from different countries come to see its fine buildings and learn about its wonderful history.

Brad: Wow, you made all these flowers out of paper?
Jane: Yes! What's more, I didn't use any glue or tape.
Brad: How did you hold the flowers together then?
Jane: I used different techniques to fold them. It's called origami, a very old art from Japan. All you need is paper—nothing else.
Brad: So, is this the paper you use to make flowers?
Jane: Yes. You can use any type of paper to make origami, but I like this kind. It's made just for origami.
Brad: I want to learn to make origami, too. I can only make paper planes. What else can you make out of paper besides flowers?
Jane: Well, making paper planes is a kind of origami, too. Besides flowers, I've made all kinds of animals and things like boxes and bags. Now, I'm learning to make action origami. You need special techniques to make the origami move.
Brad: That's so cool. Please be my origami teacher!

Question: Do you open gifts in front of the givers in China?

I am traveling to China soon, and I was told that it's good manners not to open gifts in front of the givers in China. It is more polite to open gifts when they are not around. Is that true? I grew up in the USA. Whether they're birthday gifts or Christmas presents, we always open them in front of the givers, so they can see how happy we are when we see the gifts. So, my question is this: If I am given a gift when I'm in China, should I wait until I get home, or should I open it in front of the giver?

#1 When I was in China, I went out for dinner with a friend for his birthday. He didn't open the gift I gave him during the dinner. He opened it after he got home. Later that night, I got a call from him, and he said thanks. But I'm not sure if most people there do that, or if it was just him.

#2 I've lived here in China for years. One thing I know for sure is that if someone gives you a red envelope with lucky money in it, don't open it. It's more polite to wait. As for gifts, I think it depends on the people. Perhaps you can ask them if they want you to open the gift in front of them. It never hurts to ask.

One hot summer day, a fox fell into a deep well. She tried hard to climb out but failed. Then a thirsty goat came by. The goat took a look at the broken bucket beside the well and said to himself, "There is no way I can get water from the well; the only tool I can use is broken." The fox heard the goat and said, "Hey, Mr. Goat. You don't need that bucket. Just jump in and have some water. It is cold and fresh." The goat was really thirsty, so he did not think twice before jumping into the well. When the goat was busy drinking water, the fox jumped on the goat's back and climbed out of the well. After the fox got out, the goat found out how hard it would be for him to leave the well. Like the fox, the goat tried and tried but could not get out of the well.

• NOTICE •

To provide a safer and better environment for the area, we are building new pedestrian paths around the Fine Art Museum of Naboo. With the wider, more modern pedestrian paths, we hope to see people enjoy their walks more without the fear of tripping over the tree roots. The construction will begin on May 6, and it is expected to last about a month. We, the Fine Art Museum of Naboo, apologize for the possible noise the construction may cause. We will do our best to keep the construction as fast and quiet as possible. As a good neighbor, the Fine Art Museum of Naboo would like to give anyone who lives in this area a free ticket to the museum.

A study found that king penguins take several naps during the day, and it is harder 19 in the afternoon than in the morning. Dr. Gérard Dewasmes spent a month studying penguins that live in Antarctica. When studying their sleeping habits, he noticed king penguins 20 more deeply after lunch than in the morning.

In Dr. Dewasmes's study, he tapped the sleeping penguins' shoulders once a minute until they woke up. In the morning, it took about six minutes to wake them up from a nap. 21, it usually took about ten minutes to wake them up in the afternoon.

The study shows how deeply king penguins sleep changes with the environment around them. Morning is the time when many animals come out to look for food. It is also the time when penguins have a greater chance 22. King penguins need to be careful of larger animals nearby, so they wake up easily when taking a nap in the morning.

Hello, Mrs. Watson,

I hope you're doing well. I'm so glad to hear that 25. However, the art museum made a mistake. I believe the date on the invitation you got says October 21, but my show is actually on 26, ten days earlier than it says on the invitation. Now they are sending out new invitations 27 the correct date on them. You will get a new invitation by mail for sure, but I wanted to let you know as soon as possible. When I heard that you were coming, I was so 28 that I jumped up and down. You were the one who cheered me up and turned me into a boy 29 dream is to be a great artist. It will mean a lot to me to see you at the show. See you soon.

Best,
 Victor Lee

Hundreds of years ago, a group of people traveled around to look for a place to call home until a prince whose name was Gabór gave them a piece of land in Transylvania. Since then, they have lived there for 500 years. All the children in the group are named after the prince. Their first or last name has to be Gabór. They are known as the Gabór.

Now there are more than 1,000 Gabór living in the mountains of Transylvania. Away from the outside world, the Gabór have their own way of life. They do not eat pork. The men always wear large black hats, and the women wear long skirts. Married women's hair has to be covered and cannot be seen by anyone except their husbands.

Most Gabór girls leave school at age 11 and get married at 14. Around the age of 35, most Gabór women are grandmothers. Gabór boys usually leave school at age 14 and start learning how to do business. Married Gabór women stay home with the children. Their husbands travel across Europe and work as salesmen to make money for the family.
