Nathan's Hot Dog Eating Contest in the USA takes place on July 4th every year. Competitive eaters around the world join, and American competitive eaters win the contest most of the time. In the 2001 Nathan's Hot Dog Eating Contest, Takeru Kobayashi, a competitive eater from Japan, ate 50 hot dogs in only 12 minutes. He won the contest, and that surprised everyone because he just joined the contest for the first time. From then on, he won five more times from 2002 to 2006 and broke his own record three times. However, he got hurt during training, and it became difficult for him to open his mouth then. He joined the contest again in 2007 and ate 63 hot dogs in 12 minutes, but Joey Chestnut, an American competitive eater, defeated him by eating 66 hot dogs in 12 minutes. Since then, Takeru Kobayashi has never won first place in Nathan's Hot Dog Eating Contest, but a lot of fans around the world still love him. Takeru Kobayashi was much shorter and thinner than all the American competitive eaters, but he made himself better by practicing hard day and night.

Life History of Larry King

Larry King was one of the most famous television and radio hosts in America. He was born into a poor family in New York in 1933. When he was a teenager, he dreamed of working in radio broadcasting, and he worked really hard to make his dream come true.

In 1960, he began to host Miami Undercover and got more and more famous after that. From 1978 to 1994, he hosted the radio talk show, The Larry King Show. In the show, Larry would interview guests and then take phone calls from listeners. He had his first national television talk show, Larry King Live, on CNN in 1985. That was the first time he showed his face openly, and the show lasted for 25 years. Sadly, on January 23rd, 2021, Larry King died of COVID-19. But he will live on through his work.

Many people think it has not been safe to eat out since COVID-19 hit Taiwan, so food delivery services have been more and more popular. In the spring of 2020, the revenue of the food delivery market in Taiwan grew three times higher than what it was in 2019. After Taiwan had better control of COVID-19, more people chose to eat out, but the next quarter's revenue was still twice as much as last quarter's revenue.

Food delivery services make people's lives more convenient, but there are also some downsides. For example, meals on food delivery apps are usually more expensive than those in restaurants. That's because restaurants have to share the money with food delivery platforms. For example, if you order a bowl of beef noodles on a food delivery app and pay NT$100 for it, the restaurant can only get NT$70, and the platform will get the rest.

Another disadvantage is that many couriers often get into accidents because they have to ride scooters on rainy days and ride fast to deliver food on time. From October, 2019 to October, 2020, there were about 2,100 food delivery accidents in Taipei.

- ( ) 2. According to the reading, how much does a restaurant make if someone orders ten NT$150 meals?
📖 according to 根據
(A) NT$450. (B) NT$750.
(C) NT$600. (D) NT$1,050.
- ( ) 3. What can we learn from the reading?
(A) No one used food delivery apps in Taiwan before COVID-19 hit.
(B) The meal prices on food delivery apps may be higher.
(C) Food delivery apps were more popular in Taiwan than those in other countries in the summer of 2020.
(D) Couriers usually deliver food by car when it is raining heavily.

My one-year stay in Taiwan was a wonderful experience. My friend, Phoebe, and her family were the best people to show me their culture, especially through those festivals with food! Since the old days, people there have celebrated many festivals with delicious food all year round. My first and most surprising food experience in Taiwan was eating with Phoebe and her family on New Year's Eve. With a big dinner, families got together to start a new year and say goodbye to the old one. People also ended the celebration with food. They ate some Yuan Xiao, sticky rice balls, and believed their round shape could bring good luck. On Dragon Boat Festival, Phoebe's grandma made rice dumplings and shared them with me. People eat this snack to remember Qu Yuan. He is respectable because he loved his country so much that he died for it. Around the time of Moon Festival, most people in Taiwan have a lot of fun having BBQ parties with their families and friends, but they don't know why! I guess festivals are great times for people to enjoy yummy food. That's the reason!

【A】

Movies are not only made to bring laughter but also made to make people think. Sometimes, a movie can even make the world a better place. Take the movie Silenced for example. It’s based on a true story from the early 2000s in South Korea. The story is about sexual assaults by teachers in Gwangju Inhwa School. Since the movie came out, more and more people have learned about the terrible event and stood up for the victims. What’s more, because of these helpful people, the country passed the “Dogani Law” and the bad guys were given sentences. As you can see, movies are more than just movies. They also carry the great power to change the world.

☞ laughter 笑聲 be based on 根據 sexual assault 性侵害 event 事件 victim 受害者 sentence 判刑

- (A) It is an exciting action movie.
(B) The story happened in real life.
(C) It was playing in theaters in 2000.
(D) Nothing changed after it came out.

【B】

Jodie Foster is one of the actresses with the most awards in history. She is famous for breaking gender stereotypes in several award-winning movies.

For example, she played a young waitress, Sarah, in The Accused in 1988. One day, Sarah was sexually assaulted by three bad guys when she was dancing happily at a restaurant. She tried her best to call for help, but no one gave her a hand. Most of them thought she was having fun with those guys. What’s even worse, just because she did bad things in the past, like taking drugs, no one thought the three bad guys should be sued. Sarah had no choice but to take action by herself. At last, the three bad guys were sued, and the idea that women should be treated in the same way as men was presented.

In The Silence of the Lambs, she played a young FBI agent, Clarice, without much experience. A bad guy named Buffalo Bill killed a lot of people, and Clarice was asked to catch him. She visited Buffalo Bill’s doctor to learn more about him, and then she worked hard and carefully on her own. Finally, Buffalo Bill was caught, and a tortured woman was successfully saved by the FBI before being killed. In the movie, women were brave and able to save others.

☞ award 獎項 sexually assault 性侵害 take drugs 吸毒 sue 控告 agent 探員

Jo: You look worried. What happened?
Ann: I've spoken English with my daughter Emma since she was born. Although we live in Taiwan, her English is better than her Chinese. However, Emma's teacher told me that Emma has language problems. She asked me to take her to the doctor.
Jo: Come on! Emma started going to school only two months ago. She needs time to get used to school life. Maybe you can let her watch Chinese TV shows to improve her Chinese listening skills so she can understand what her teachers say more quickly. It's not that serious. If you're still worried, you can take her to the doctor.

Ann: I feel much better after talking to you. Thanks.

Hello, I'm Tina. Welcome to my channel. Today, let's learn some idioms with body parts. An idiom is a group of words, and the meaning of an idiom is often different from the original meanings of each word.

If you get "cold feet," that means you've planned to do something, but all of a sudden, you think you aren't brave enough to do it. If you give someone the "cold shoulder," that means you ignore them or show no interest in them. If something "costs an arm and a leg," that means its price is quite high. If someone "has a sweet tooth," that means they like to eat sweet food.

Idioms are interesting, aren't they? They are commonly used not only in spoken languages but also in written languages. Want to know more about idioms? See you in the next video!

As the old saying goes, “Good fences make good neighbors.” I can’t agree with it more because it’s exactly what has happened between my new neighbor and me. Mr. Kant just moved to our town last month, but he soon became “Mr. CAN’T” in the eyes of many people. He is often heard saying, “No, you have no right to do this” or “I’m afraid you’re not allowed to do that.” Maybe that’s because of his job. I learned what he does when he first moved here. On the first day, when my dog, Lucky, saw him and kept shouting at him across the lawn, I was busy making my breakfast in the kitchen without noticing Mr. Kant in his garden. Later that day, however, I saw a worker building fences between Mr. Kant’s house and mine when I was leaving home with Lucky. Then Mr. Kant came up to me, said hello, and gave me his business card over the fences. “You don’t mind it, do you?” he smiled. “No, not at all. I’m Joe Smith. Nice to meet you, Mr. Kant.” Since that day, my window hasn’t been broken again by a neighbor’s naughty boy, and Lucky has no longer been able to run wild across the lawn, either.

How many pairs of shoes do you have? Shoes don't just keep our feet warm; they also keep our feet from getting hurt. It's common for many children to buy new shoes when the old ones are too small. However, having shoes in the right sizes is difficult for poor African children. Many African kids don't have money to buy shoes, so they usually wear used shoes from other countries. Also, when a child finally gets a pair of shoes, the shoes are often in the wrong sizes. To fix the problem, Because International started a program which is called The Shoe That Grows. They use Velcro straps and rubber soles to make shoes which can span over five different shoe sizes. With the special shoes, children in Africa no longer need to worry about wearing the wrong size and hurting their feet.

Angelfish have bright colors as camouflage to help them hide themselves when they are in danger. Their colors at night are not as bright as they are in the daytime. Of all the angelfish, the blackspot angelfish is the most special because it can change from female to male. Blackspot angelfish live in groups, and every group has one blue male and four yellow females. The male angelfish is larger and stronger than the others in the group because its job is to take care of the female ones. If the male one dies, the biggest female in the group will start to grow bigger. Several days later, she will change her color from yellow to blue and start to act like a male. After two weeks, her body will have black stripes, and that means she has already turned into a male.

Here's a market report about Happy Cooking School.

The number of members in the cooking school this year is lower than last year, so I think we should make some changes. Our busiest hours are weekend afternoons, when almost half of the members take classes to learn how to make desserts. It'll be better if we have more dessert classes during the two hours every weekend. We should also offer more free classes to our members and invite them to bring their friends to join. That way, more people will know about our school. Our second busiest time is weekend evenings. We have also noticed that there are more members taking classes on weekday afternoons, usually before 4 p.m., than on weekday evenings. It's because most of our members are housewives. They usually take classes before picking up their children from school. If we start our classes one or two hours earlier on weekdays, it might draw more housewives to be our members.

Scientists in America found some energy drinks whose alcohol levels are higher than 0.005%, and they wanted to know if the alcohol in the energy drinks could be detected by the alcohol breath test (ABT). They asked several people to do the test. All of them first drank a bottle of energy drink. Then, each of these people was given an ABT one minute and 15 minutes after drinking. The scientists found that alcohol could be detected when the test was taken one minute after people drank the energy drinks. However, no alcohol could be detected when the test was done 15 minutes after people had the energy drinks. In a word, the faster the test is done after people drink the energy drinks, the more possible the alcohol will be detected.

Do you know yourself well? Now, here's some useful information for you. FPA, short for Four-colors Personality Analysis, is a study that uses four colors, red, blue, yellow, and green, to represent four different kinds of personalities. And it comes as no surprise that, according to FPA, red people are full of energy and always ready to take action. However, blues think a lot and want to get things done perfectly. Yellow people enjoy working as a team, and greens, who are usually friendly and warm, don't like fights. In fact, some of us may belong to one of the four colors, but more people fall somewhere between any two of them. FPA can be of great help not only in understanding what we are like in a simple way but also in choosing a right job. So, what's your "true color"?
